"The mills of the gods grind slow, but they grind dreadfully fine," Judge Black reminded the Electoral Commission, as he finished administering his parting castigation of that guilt-stricken body. The grinding ie about to commence. The Nemesis, which Judge Black predicted would sooner or later overtake the authors of the conspiracy, already raises its clenched hands over the heads of the guilty wretches who in vain have striven to escape its pursuit. Public opinion, moving on with deep and resistless current, has swept a reluctant Congress with it.
